When silence is worth being stared at

Pierluigi Orler and Luigi Alfieri. A photographer and a journalist and writer joined in an exhibition, "Silenzi da guardare - Vardèr l'acort" (Silences to look at), inaugurated last Saturday and open until July, 31 (everyday, 10.00 a.m. - 12.30 p.m. and 3.00 p.m. - 7.00 p.m.) in the room "Luigi Heilmann" by the Ladin Museum in Vigo di Fassa. The exhibit shows a selection of striking works by Orler, well-known photographer of local origins (Val di Fiemme), taken in different places, from the Dolomites to the hills of Umbria, to the exotic landscapes of Morocco. Intense and touching pictures that together with the beauty of the places can recall memories and passions in the public, accompanied by Alfieri' "photo-story", sprung from the attentive and introspective observation of each snapshot.

Travel, sport, architecture but also natural environments photographer, Pierluigi Orler has been co-working with the major Italian and foreign tourism magazines for years. Being keen on sports, he has also followed several Olympics and World championships.

Easy walks

From Pozza town-centre to Bagni

This easy but picturesque walk starts from San Nicolò's Church: leave Strada de Meida street and then take Strada de Freina street on your left, which soon becomes a dirt road and forks after a while. At the crossroads, take the path that goes down to the right, towards the wood. Here, the track flattens out to rejoin to the foot/cycle lane which leads to the village of Soraga: turn right, skirting the water purification plant and the stream Avisio until you get back in Pozza and you reach the Town Council in Meida. Near the Town Council, cross Piazza de Comun square and turn left in "Promenada enlongia Ruf" ("Walk along the stream") and walk through up along the stream "Ruf de Sèn Nicolò" to the left to San Nicolò's Church.

Passepartout

In the blue sky painted in blue... in the Dolomites

With good weather the skies of Fassa colour of beautiful shades of blue, but they also get enriched by the colours of several sails. Paragliders and hang-glidiers feel at home, in particular in Campitello and Canazei, well-known free flight stations. Those who are passionate of this sport come from all over Europe to parachute from Col Rodella's and Belvedere's natural trampolines and benefit of the upward currents developing with the raising of temperatures. These weather conditions, together with the wonderful landscape of the Dolomites, add fashion to the flight. Beginners can experience the two-seater paraglider, driven in safety by the instructors of the Icarus Flying Team School (Phone: +39 335 6757667).

Did you know that...

Paul Preuss (1886-1913), famous Austrian climber, defined 6 principles to go to the mountain: 1) be superior to the difficulties you come across; 2) the standard of difficulty a climber faces while descending must represent the upper limit he faces while ascending; 3) using artificial means is justifiable only in case of approaching danger; 4) pitons have to be an emergency reserve; 5) the rope is a facility, not the essential gear to climb; 6) the main principle is the primary security of each climber, based on the correct estimation of his own ability.

To participate in the initiatives for guests is compulsory to register at least one day in advance at the Tourist Offices of the Val di Fassa Card (ask your employer accommodation). The activities are reserved for guests of the associated structures all'Apt Val di Fassa.
