"Auf Wiedersehen Italia"

During last years, many young Italians have left our country to move to Germany. What makes these talented boys and girls seek their fortune there? Leopoldo Innocenti, journalist for the Italian Rai for long, now living in Berlin, gives his answer to the question in his book "Auf Wiedersehen Italia, in fuga verso il futuro" (Good-bye Italy, on the run towards the future.), which he's going to present today at 5.30 p.m. in Perla Alpina small square in Moena. The book, published by Armando Editore (144 p., € 12), collects some interviews to some of those who have chosen Germany to realise their ambitions. There comes out a brilliant work which helps better to understand the left country, Italy, and the destination, Germany, giving original tips to know them better.

Did you know that...

In the past centuries, mothers in Val di Fassa used to wean their babies very soon after birth as they didn't have enough milk because of the overload of work in the fields and at home, to which they usually went back short after the childbirth. Sometimes they happened to have to give the children the "jufa da pop" (a rye or wheat flour diluted in cow milk or water) before the christening. This phenomenon was strictly linked with infant mortality rate: if the infant was strong and had a good stomach, he could digest this mixture. Otherwise, he would have died because of digestive problems.
