"Love and war" coreographies

Marcella Galbusera, after the diploma in contemporary dance in London, has studied in NY and worked with the Reggie Workman Jazz Ensemble. Back to Verona, in 1999 she founded the company Teatro3 where she works in the theatre and dance production.

Theatre, poetry and contemporary dance, tied by today's music, to investigate on the areas of conflict and affection, constant in human life. Reality and feelings that seem antithetical, but that find a fusion point in "D'Amore e Guerra", today at the theatre Navalghe in Moena at 9.00 p.m. On stage, the strength of movement alternates with word expressed through poetry, gleaned freely from texts by Alda Merini, Bertolt Brecht, Nazim Hikmet, Vivian Lamarque and other authors. Directed by Marcella Galbusera, who is also the curator of the choreographies, the show sees on stage not only Galbusera, but also Angela Adami, Manuela Padovani, Iguacel Sanchez and Chiara Mascalzoni. The music, live played, is composed by Massimo Rubulotta and Stefano Benini.

Easy walks

From Mazzin to the small hamlet of Ronch in Pera

After the bridge on the stream Ruf de Udai in Mazzin, walk along Strèda de Col da Chieve street and, on your right, ascend a dirt road to the bend to Monzon. Go up for 300 metres and you will arrive in Ronch, seeing a beautiful hayloft in front of you. Turn left on a path that crosses the meadows at the bottom of Monzon, walk down the track of the Via Crucis and, as the descent becomes steeper, keep going flat on your left. You will get to a restored hayloft and then to the quarter of Rualp. Cross the bridge over Ruf de Soal and go on along Strada Ciadenac street. Cross the street and take Strada Jumela. Pass the bridge over river Avisio and take the street that skirts the stream on your left. Climb the ramp and, arrived few beyond the bridge over the Avisio, enter the village along Strèda de Chiavacia and Strèda dò Ruf streets.

Passepartout

The "Tour of the Dolomites" climbs up to Sella and Pordoi

Each section of the competition that takes place from the 27th of July to the 2nd of August, starts and arrives in Bolzano. The cyclists can take part to the whole competition but can also choose only three or even one leg. Today they also face the uphill time trial from Selva di Val Gardena to Passo Sella, 10,5 km long, with an altitude gap of 709 m. The brave participants meet the most demanding part of the heat at the beginning, until they get to the crossroads between Passo Sella and Passo Gardena. The rest of the ascent crosses a beautiful wide valley in front of the bastions of the Sella chain. Once they have reached the pass, the cyclists' strain hasn't finished yet, because the ascents to the passes Pordoi, Campolongo and Gardena is there waiting to be challenged, before the final descent to Bolzano.

Did you know that...

Riccardo Löwy street is one of the main routes that divides the village of Moena. But why this name? Löwy (1886- 1944) was an Austrian Official of Jewish origins who supervised Moena and San Pellegrino's fortification works, enlisting a lot of local young people and giving them the chance of avoifing the assignments on the Fronts of Gallitia and Carpathian. Löwy came back to Moena with his wife after the annexation of Austria to Germany, but he was deported to Auschwitz in 1944 where, unfortunately, he died.

To participate in the initiatives for guests is compulsory to register at least one day in advance at the Tourist Offices of the Val di Fassa Card (ask your employer accommodation). The activities are reserved for guests of the associated structures all'Apt Val di Fassa.
