Did you know that...

Around 35 thousand people live today in the Ladin Valleys of the Dolomites, the majority of which speak Ladin as mother tongue. The idiom gives this people the chance to legitimate their ethnic-linguistic group as independent. Despite its ancient origins (fusion between Rhaetian and Latin), the scientific acknowledgement of Ladin dates back to the second half of the nineteenth Century. Some experts, after several researches, found out that it was actually present in three linguistic spots: in the Dolomites, in Friuli and in the Grisons (Switzerland).

To participate in the initiatives for guests is compulsory to register at least one day in advance at the Tourist Offices of the Val di Fassa Card (ask your employer accommodation). The activities are reserved for guests of the associated structures all'Apt Val di Fassa.
