Elina Duni Quartet's "jazz-folk" in Val San Nicolò

The 32 years old Elina Duni (photo) is the daughter of a film director and a writer. When she was 10, she moved to Switzerland to study classic piano and voice. In case of bad weather, the concert takes place at 6.00 pm in the Theatre of the Oratory in Pozza.

The meeting point between her native land, Albania, and the adoptive one, Switzerland, is an interesting music rehash, letting us perceive the medley of the two cultures to which she belongs. Elina Duni plays today at 2.00 pm on the Jonta meadows in San Nicolò Valley. Duni, with the players Colin Valon (piano), Patrice Moret (double bass) e Norbert Pfammatter (drum), proposes for "The Sounds of the Dolomites" some pieces of her last album "Matanè Malit" (Beyond the Mountains). Melodies and texts melt into music tales from the Balkan – the notes she listen to in her youth – and into jazz. You reach the venue from Pozza, driving until the car park Saùch in San Nicolò Valley, continuing on foot till the Baita delle Cascade, thence on path no.609 (1-hour walk).

Amazing hikes

From Ronchi to Fango

This excursion begins in the area named "Ronchi", nearby Moena. From the overpass of Lusia ski slope on the state road from Moena to San Pellegrino continue driving for 700 m until the small park area on the right, before the bridge on Rif de Sèn Pelegrin. Leave the car here and walk ahead on the forest road parallel to the stream. The trail is composed by flat tracks that alternate with few easy ascents and three ramps, which do not exceed 250 m length. Along the trail you will find a point of sparse trees (where - in the past - an avalanche swept away the wood), leave on the right path no.625 (leading towards Malga Colvere) and cross the stream in the area of "Fango" nearby a well-equipped picnic area with tables and benches (2 hrs.). Return along the same path.

Music: "A Spas co la Musega"

Lively and cheerful notes trigger the night event in Pozza "A Spas co la Musega". Today from 9.00 p.m., Strada de Meida (from the square Piazza de Comun to the square Piaz de Sen Nicolò) hosts bands and groups playing various music genres. The band from Molina di Fiemme opens the party with the local traditional band pieces. If you prefer more lively rhythms and dance, you can rely on the four groups playing pop, rock folk and other genres: "Marco & Gianni", "Area 51", "Alpen Boys" e "Luciano & Emilio". Walking along the streets, you will run into several gastronomic stands where you can taste the best Ladin delicacies and sweets, and find friendly entertainment for children. You can even enjoy the night shopping, as the stores are opened till late at night.

Did you know that...

In the 19th century there were people suggesting the best time to visit the Dolomites, at dawn of mountain tourism. Among those, Theodor Christomannos, inventor of Strada delle Dolomiti, recommended July and August as ideal months to visit the valley, and suggesting June for flowers lovers and September for blue and clear sky lovers. Christomannos - who has a monument among the rocks - used to highlight: "...but winter, with its snow and whiteness, is without parallel elsewhere". At the time there were neither cable cars nor ski slopes: it was a true love declaration.
