Loredana Cont (photo) was born in Switzerland but lives now in Rovereto. Since she was young, she has been writing brilliant texts, in the dialect of Trentino, subsequently translated in other dialects' variations, and performed in many Theatres throughout Italy.

It starts with the reading, in the vocabulary, of the etymology of "Woman", meaning "mistress" in Latin. The soundtrack "Donne" – the famous song by the Italian artist Zucchero – accompanies the show, based on irony and wit, touching off laughter. The actress and author Loredana Cont goes onstage tonight, at 9.00 p.m. at Padiglione Manifestazioni in Soraga, and presents her monologue "Chi dice donna..cosa diselo?" (Who speaks woman..what's saying?). Cont investigates on woman's role and the relationship with the man, tells proverbs on women and quotes some famous women. Everything is told with a marked sense of humour. The show captivates the public from the beginning till the end, and gives a cause for reflection once you leave the room.

From Col dei Rossi to Passo Fedaia

This is an "Amazing walk" starting from Canazei: by the lift facilities (ropeways), you reach Col dei Rossi. Descend towards Refuge Belvedere and ramble rightward to the meadow, then in the dirt road till Refuge Fredarola at 2.388 m (0,20 h). Follow path no.601, mainly flat till Refuge Viel dal Pan at 2.432 m (0,40 h). Go ahead for a quite long stretch, enjoying the landscape over Tofane. Did you know that...

Ancient documents prove that before the nineteenth Century a big quantity of wood from Val Di Fassa had been sent to Venezia's arsenal. The practice was interrupted once the city lost its political autonomy. At the end of the nineteenth Century the wood trade was particularly flourishing. Logs were transported along the Avisio River to Val di Fiemme, and from here put in wagons direction Verona for the trade of factory materials. Other wood was cut in boards from local sawmills, and then sold in local fairs.
