To celebrate its 70th edition, the organizer Czeslaw Lang opted for the first historical foreigner trip of the "Tour de Pologne", started yesterday from Trentino. Moreover, he chose together with his friend Francesco Moser the arrival of the second leg on the Pordoi Pass (2239 m). Today the final rush is expected on the Dolomite pass at around 4.00 p.m. (the today's stage starts in Marilleva at 10.00 a.m., and its length is almost 200 km). Amongst the 226 riders, there are also "special guests", like Vincenzo Nibali, winner of the Giro d'Italia 2013. The stage is a real party for all the fans of bicycle, who can reach the finishing line by the ropeways (cable car from Canazei and cableway from Pecol) leading to Col dei Rossi, then on foot until the pass.

Did you know that...

In the 2nd half of the 17th century, the sculptures and decorators working for the workshop Grober in Campitello produced altars for some Churches of the valley, among which Fontanazzo, Soraga, Vigo and some villages of the neighbour valleys. The renaissance style of the time shows in the holy works by the "Grober" the father and two sons following him in a joyous attitude, compared with the first column altars introduced in Moena. The Grober, in fact, put more columns, with spirals and vine in relief with angels and break the pediment in order to confer an openwork aspect.
