Meroi and Benet story of love and alpinism

Meroi was born in 1961 in Bonate di Sotto, and Benet in 1962 from Tarvisio, where they actually live. The 2 alpinists (photo) are moderate in their stories by the journalist Andrea Selva. In case of bad weather the meeting takes place at 6.00 p.m. at the school in Moena.

Nives Meroi, from Bergamo, is considered to be the strongest climber ever, as she reached 11 (out of 14) eight thousand without the need of oxygen. She climbed many of these mountains together with her husband, Romano Benet.

Today at 2.00 p.m. at the Refuge Bergvagabunden Huetle, with Romano, she tells their story for the appointment belonging to the "Sounds of the Dolomites" called "Uomini, Cime e Racconti" (Men, Mountains and Stories). The story tells about their lives, the peaks they reached and what they shared: success and difficulties. This appointment will let the public astonished, due to the confidential attitude. You can reach the venue from San Pellegrino Pass by chairlift Costabella, then on foot on path no.604 (50 min.).

High-level walks

From Pordoi Pass to Fedaia Pass

To undertake this "High-level walk", you start from Pordoi Pass: make for path no. 601, between Casa del Cai and Hotel Savoia, that leads to a grassy cleft. Bypass the pass leftward and then descend to Fredarola Refuge (0,40 h). keep going on path no. 601, which is mostly flat, until you reach the Refuge Viel dal Pan (40 min walking). Continue for a quite long stretch enjoying the landscape over Tofane. You arrive then to a crossroads. Descend now rightward and diagonally toward a dam, and through a steep slope to be covered with caution in its last stretch. You will reach the state road of Fedaia Pass, in front of the Refuge Marmolada "E. Castiglioni" (2.054 m; 1,20 h; 2 hrs.). You come back to Canazei by bus that stops at the end of the path.
