Passepartout

Nature according to "Cucaloch"

Animals, trees, streams and glimpses of Val di Fassa, which are not easy to catch by the majority of people. The passion for photography and the nature of the Ladin valley is what the four friends from Moena have in common. They are Elio Vadagnini, Livio Vadagnini, Alberto Degiampietro, Ennio Adami, or better the "Cucaloch", Ladin for "people staring with curiosity". Their exhibition "Momenc" (Ladin for "moments") was inaugurated yesterday and is opened till 17th august (5.00 – 7.30 p.m. and 9.00 – 10.00 p.m.) at the Mini Civica in Piaz de Sotegrava in Moena. On exhibit some shots caught by the photographers' lens that arouse emotions and depict real nature's poems and the authenticity of Mother Nature, with the most beautiful flora and fauna.

Did you know that...

In the second half of the nineteenth century, the Ladin language aroused interests amongst scientists and linguistics that reached the valley and asked Fassa's people to speak, in order to understand the features of that spoken language, even if they had to work in the fields and look after the cattle. In this way, the first characteristics of Ladin were fixed. Among the most important researcher there was Christian Schneller, Austrian school inspector, who in 1870 started off the official studies on the spoken language of the Dolomites, the Anauia and Friuli region.

To participate in the initiatives for guests is compulsory to register at least one day in advance at the Tourist Offices of the Val di Fassa Card (ask your employer accommodation). The activities are reserved for guests of the associated structures all'Apt Val di Fassa.
