HIGHLIGHTS

THE MUSIC OF HELGA PLANKENSTEINER AT COL RODELLA

Today at 1 P.M. on the green stage of Col Rodella the singer and saxophonist from Alto Adige Helga Plankensteiner is back. Helga, singer, baritone and composer exhibits today at the event Panorama Music performing her album "Plankton". She is the front-girl of the band made up by five musicians: Matthias Schriefl (trumpet), Gerhard Gschlössl (trombone), Michael Lösch (Hammond organ), Enrico Terragnoli (guitar, banjo) and Nelide Bandello (drum). Helga is considered an excellent jazz musician thanks to her passion and curiosity that remained with her since the beginning of her career. She started playing sax contralto later, she became baritone taking part in numerous artistic and didactical events.

Itineraries

AGATHA CHRISTIE'S PATH

In the twenties, the famous and appreciated crime writer Agatha Christie sojourned in the nearest of Carezza Lake, near Vigo di Fassa, and was really enthusiastic about the area. Even in her crime novel "The Big Four" she recorded her pleasant staying in the Dolomites, describing the rocky Latemar Labyrinth that hid an outlaws' mob. This easy itinerary starts from the west limit of the lake on path n. 11. Following the track you will reach a crossroads: both the paths bring to the forest hut of Mitterleger where you can find path n. 20, which leads to the mysterious Labyrinth. Overstep some larches and enter in the landslip that shapes the maze of the Dolomites. Descend towards a hollow where a pond regenerates every summer. Here you will find a couple of paths to go back to Carezza Lake.

Did you know that...

On the 1st July 1915 the hamlets of Insom and Penia were evacuated because of their little proximity to Marmolada's Front. Italian troops were near (in that time Val di Fassa belonged to Austria). Still nowadays people tell that it was a very sad day: soldiers helped children and women in tears to carry the things strictly necessary. All the men were at the front. In the hamlet there were only the elderly, who pulled the wagons at which cows and oxes were yoked. Population of these two hamlets found shelter in the near Val di Fiemme.
