HIGHLIGHT

AN ARCHIPELAGO OF INHABITANTS AT THE APERITIF

Who are the inhabitants of the Dolomites? What's their story? Which languages do they speak? Which culture do they have? With the help of the sociologist Cesare Poppi, the Ladin Museum organizes the today aperitif, at 5.00 p.m. by its headquarter in Sèn Jan di Fassa, to answer these questions. After the success of the past edition, the museum promotes again, on Monday in July and August, the cycle "Aperitif at the museum.. with the Unesco Dolomites": meetings with scientists, writers, anthropologists and other experts who explain various aspects of these mountains, World Heritage Site, on which the journalist Piero Badaloni has focused in six wonderful documentaries. At the end of the encounter, tasting with traditional food and wine from Val di Fassa and from Trentino (price: € 3,00).

Itineraries

FROM MOENA TO SAN PELLEGRINO PASS TO FUCIADÉ

The state street n. 346 connects the town of Moena to San Pellegrino Pass (1.919 m). Descend for some 200 metres on the other side of the mountain Pass and after an overpass, turn left into the road ascending towards Hotel Miralago, where you have to leave your car. You can also park in the broad parking area on your right, before the overpass. From Miralago starts an easy dirt road, mostly flat, which brings you to the beautiful hollow of Fuciade, an extraordinary limestone Amphitheatre surrounded by imposing mountains, whose Ladin names are L'Om, Jigolè, Sas de Valfreida. The place is also particularly interesting from the botanic point of view, due to the presence of many plants and flowers, some of which are one-of-a-kind. The itinerary ends at Fuciade Hut (1.972 m; 1 h). Take the same route to go back.

Did you know that...

Human traces in Val di Fassa date back to the Mesolithic age (8000 years ago): groups of hunters coming from the flat land got to the mountains, rich in game. Giving evidence to their passage several worked flintstones, found at Sella di Ciamòl (2354 m), Sella Brunèch (2428 m) and Sella di Crèpa Nèigra (2360 m), where even a splinter of basaltic stone was found. Other findings came to light in Val di Dona, Val Duron, and on the west face of Pordoì, whether on Sella Pass numerous hunting tools were found.

Initiatives reserved to guests with the Val di Fassa Card (ask your hotel/apartment) enrolments required by the previous day at the Tourist Offices . Activities are reserved for guests of the associated structures of Val di Fassa Tourist Board
