HIGHLIGHT

PIERO BADALONI TO CONQUER THE DOLOMITES

With its six documentaries, commissioned in 2013 by the foundation Dolomiti Unesco, Piero Badaloni has shown to the big public the features and the splendor of the mountains recognized as World Heritage. The famous journalist, who is a regular guest in Val di Fassa, is the tonight protagonist (at 9.00 p.m. by the town council) of the event "Dalla scoperta alla conquista. Storia dell'alpinismo nelle Dolomiti Unesco". It's the topic of his second documentary, where he explains how English, German, Austrian and Italian mountaineer used to challenge each other to reach the top, while the inhabitants of the valley committed to survive. The encounter between these needs would bring to the birth of the first mountain guides, who knew the territory, to the conquest of peaks that bear names that are now part of the history.

Itineraries

FROM PIAN DE FRATACES TO COL RODELLA

This amazing hike starts in Canazei. Drive (or walk) towards hotel Lupo Bianco at Pian de Frataces, park your car and leave the street going towards the bridge over Ruf de Antermont stream. Cross it and take path n. 655 that follows Col de Pica forest road. When you reach Ruf de Val stream, go on to the limit of the wood towards the Costa Rossa. Turn right and go up to Pian de Marizanela. You will have to face a steep track to the hollow of Val. Once arrived at a crossroads, go left ascending a wide plain (0,45 h), then cross it and go up entering Val Salei, proceeding towards Passo Sella (not much over Rifugio Valentini; 0,30 h; 1,15 h). From here, go left towards Rifugio Des Alpes (0,45 h; 2,00 hrs): here take the path that in 15 minutes brings to Col Rodella (2.484 m).

Did you know that...

The Street of the Dolomites, inaugurated in 1909, and the building of several hotels along the road, Fassa registered an extraordinary tourism inflow. All along the valley, Moena and San Pellegrino Pass included, there were 23 hotels and taverns when the First World War broke out. Moreover, there were 15 refuges at altitude. The locals were finally dreaming of a new source of revenue and a little bit of wealth. Unfortunately, the war blew out the their hopes and the idea of a flourishing tourism was set aside for long.

Initiatives reserved to the guests with the Val di Fassa Card (ask your hotel/apartment). Enrolments required within the previous day by the Tourist Offices. The activities are reserved to the guests of the associated structures of Val di Fassa Tourist Board.
