CHASING THE “VAL DI FASSA RUNNING”

After yesterday’s departure from Canazei along a circuit of 8.5 km, Val di Fassa Running come alive today. The five-leg competition has been gathering aficionados and athletes for 21 editions, during which participants, fame and competition have been rising. Even this summer, in spite of the disruptions on the territory caused by the storm Vaia at the end of last October, the organising committee has been working hard in spring to identify the viable tracks. Today, the runners move towards the hamlets of Vigo along 10,7 km to get to the arrival beside St. Giovanni’s church. In the next few days the race will move between Pozza, Soraga and Moena, where the most demanding stage (11,3 km) that can make the difference will take place on the Lusia Alp.

Itineraries

FROM CAMPITELLO TO PIAN IN CANAZEI

This walk starts from St. Filippo and Giacomo’s church, precisely from the small door (placed after the entrance door) that leads to an ancient grassy path: the start of the Via Crucis. Go on, quickly up on wide tiers among the volutes that indicate the track towards the ancient hamlet of Pian. Before going on, it is recommended to walk along the narrow roads of the hamlet and drink the water of its springs. Once passed the group of houses, go down to the right along Strèda de Pian to a bend that enters the forest road on the left, beyond the bar. Going on along the wide path, you will reach Hotel Caminetto in Canazei. Cross the street and reach the path along the stream Avisio that brings back to Campitello.

Did you know that...

Once upon a time, when the valley counted just on livestock and little cultivation that grew at high altitude, the harvest represented everything for the local economy and subsistence. Therefore, in the years of famine, there were people accusing the priests not to have sufficiently blessed the fields. To purchase corn, which wasn’t produced in Fassa, people had to go to the Adige Valley. However, in the less fertile years, farmers were forced to sell their fields to the adjacent German speaking folks, in order to buy the corn, that could cost even 8 times more than its normal price.

Initiatives reserved to the guests with the Val di Fassa Card (ask your hotel/apartment). Enrolments required within the previous day by the Tourist Offices. The activities are reserved to the guests of the associated structures of Val di Fassa Tourist Board.
