HIGHLIGHT

“LATTE IN FESTA” AT “TA MONT” IN VAL SAN NICOLÒ

Crossroads of the world – at least in Val di Fassa – today is the Val San Nicolò valley, where the grand final of “Latte in Festa” takes place at the “Festa ta Mont”. An extraordinary combination that offers the possibility to taste excellent local dishes and the opportunity for the children to take part in workshops to become “Young cheesemaker” (from 11 a.m.) and to listen to the theatrical stories of Teodora Goodman (at 2 p.m.). Adults, instead, can take part in the guided tasting with Francesco Gubert (at 2 and at 4.30 p.m.), cheese expert that will tell about the products of the Mèlga de Fascia cheese factory. Gubert, then (at 4 p.m.), together with the journalist Elisa Salvi - presents his book “90 days” about his own experience in a mountain dairy farm. The afternoon ends with the cows reaching the mountain dairy farm Mezzaselva for the milking.

Once passed over the “mountain training police centre” go on along Strada de Ischia, than down to the sport centre and take the bike and pedestrian track that goes up for a stretch and then becomes flat, and then go down towards Soraga. Pass the underpass beside the bridge on the stream Avisio and reach the playground. From here, go back to Moena along the main road, towards the tourist office, and then go on along Strada de Palua. Pass the meadows above the Soraga lake and reach Moena along Strada Sasslonch, Strada de Ischia, Strada de Moene and, finally, Strada Salejada that leads back to the square.

Did you know that...

Ancient documents prove that before the nineteenth Century a huge quantity of wood was sent from the woods of Val di Fassa to Venice’s arsenal. This practice was interrupted when the city lost its political independence. Until the half of the nineteenth Century, the wood trade was rather flourishing. Logs were transported along the river Avisio to Val di Fiemme, and from here charged on wagons towards Verona for their trade as factory material. Other wood was cut in boards in the local sawmills and then sold in local fairs.

Initiatives reserved to the guests with the Val di Fassa Card (ask your hotel/apartment). Enrolments required within the previous day by the Tourist Offices. The activities are reserved to the guests of the associated structures of Val di Fassa Tourist Board.
