

The inhabitants of this part of Moena are very proud of their hamlet that is festively decorated during these days.

HIGHLIGHT

MOENA CELEBRATES THE “CIANTON TURCHIA”

After a stop of one year, the “Festa del Cianton de Turchia” comes back in Moena in these days, by popular demand. After yesterday’s launching, local craft and food tradition can be found today and tomorrow in this part of the village that bears not only the exotic name, but also some street furniture (such as the fountain with the head of the Turkish man). The origins of this unusual callback to the Mediterranean country in the Ladin area fade between truth and legend, evoked by this week-end feast: it is said that, after the defeat of the Turkish Army in Wien in 1663, a Ottoman soldier, trying to go back home, passed through San Pellegrino pass, but, exhausted, he fainted beside the last house of the hamlet. There, he found a shelter, cures and such a hospitality that he decided to stay there to live.

Itineraries

FROM PIAN DE FRATACES TO THE HOLLOW OF VAL ON RODELLA

From Canazei, reach Pian de Frataces with the public transports. Descend on the gravel plain and go on to the wooden bridge over the stream Ruf de Antermont, then take the path n. 655 and go up towards the haylofts of Prafel. Reach the bridge over the stream Ruf de Val and go on, slightly uphill to the “Costa Rossa”. Turn right and go up along the wood to a meadow called “Pian de Marizanela”. Face a steep sunken stretch and reach the hollow of Val. At a crossroads, then, go left, going up to Pian de Jiadoes at 2000 metres (0.45 hours) and then towards Val Salei and the Sella pass (0.30; 1.15 hours). From here, reach the refuge Salei, where the ascent to the saddle Rodella starts, that then leads to the refuge Des Alpes (0.45 minutes; 2 hours). Eventually, in 15 minutes, you can reach the top of Col Rodella at 2.484 metres. Go back along the same itinerary or by cable car to Campitello and then on foot to Canazei.

Did you know that...

Karl Felix Wolf (1879 – 1966) was a German journalist, writer and anthropologist who lived in Bolzano for a long time and came often to Val di Fassa. His most famous book, still very appreciated, was “The Pale Mountain”, the widest existing collection of legends about the Dolomites. Wolf didn’t only transcript the narration of the aged people, but he also gave them the shape of History and mythology organic studies. Wolf has the merit of having reported the last footprints of legends that were once widespread in an area that was maybe wider than the dolomitic area.

Initiatives reserved to the guests with the Val di Fassa Card (ask your hotel/apartment). Enrolments required within the previous day by the Tourist Offices. The activities are reserved to the guests of the associated structures of Val di Fassa Tourist Board.
