His life has been hard as his beatification cause: the tonight appointment by the parish theatre in Campitello, at 9 p.m.), deals with the story of Charles I of Austria. The journalist David Murgia, author of several programmes on the broadcast TV2000, such as "Indagine ai confini del sacro" - from which also several publications are taken - on occasion of the last appointment with "Ispirazioni d'estate" during summer 2019. During the appointment, conducted by the journalist Elisa Salvi, Murgia will tell about the main steps of the investigation that reveals, through unseen documents, conspiracies and villainies and reconstructs the story of Charles of Austria, who worked vainly in order to end the Great War. Itineraries

FROM THE REFUGE PAOLINA TO THE REFUGE RODA DI VAEI

Once reached the Carezza pass (1746 m) from Vigo, go on towards the namesake lake until you see, on your right, a label indicating the chairlift Paolina (and the parking beside it). Take the chairlift that leads, in few minutes, to the 2125 metres of the refuge Paolina. From there, take the path n. 539 that goes straight up along some wide tiers, leading the gaze to the powerful rocks of the Catinaccio on one side and of the Latemar on the other one. After an uphill stretch, go on along a pleasant slight slope, sometimes rocky, until (after about 30 minutes) you come across a big bronze eagle, where taking a picture is mandatory. It is the monument dedicated to Theodor Christomannos, to whom the construction of the "Great Road of the Dolomites" is due. After about 30 minutes walking along the path n. 549, you will reach the refuge Roda di Vael. Go back along the same path.

His most famous publication is "Usanzes e lurgeres da zacan" ("Ancient habits and works" of 1987): it deals with a sort of spiritual testament, considered a "milestone" of the Ladin literature.
