HIGHLIGHT

FLY IN VAL DI FASSA

This is the best time of the year for free flying in Val di Fassa. And the aficionados know it. Not by chance, the sky fills every day with wings until mid-October, especially between Campitello and Canazei, renowned launching stations. Those who love this sport, in fact, arrive from all over the world to jump off the natural platforms at Col Rodella and Belvedere, taking advantage of the updrafts that develop while the temperatures rise. These atmospheric conditions bring more and more participants to "Fassa Sky Expo" – which takes place this year from September 27th to September 29th – and gathers experts and specialized companies for a 3-day meeting with equipment tests, talks and much fun in the air.

Itineraries

"L'EGA TE CUNA"

"L'ega te cuna" (Ladin for "The water in the crib") is an interesting, didactic track, dedicated to children in particular, which starts in Penia (beside the hotel Sonia). The itinerary, not much longer than 2 km to cover in about 45 minutes, develops along the stream Avisio, through bridges and walkways. The track is divided into 13 stages and several labels or explaining about the flora, the fauna, the water cycle, the legends about the sources and the seasons of the Avisio. There is even the "voice" of the stream (a poetry by Stefano Dell'Antonio) that generates at the foot of the Marmolada. One of the most interesting passages of the itinerary is "La Sia": the ancient Venetian water sawmill, just before going back to the start.

Did you know that...

The inhabitants of Pera used, in the past, to reach Tires for trade, passing through the Catinaccio. They would go up along the Vajolet valley and reach the tavern "Alla Rosa" at Soial, then the hollow of Gardeccia to go to west in the dip "Buja de Davoi". Otherwise, they would go across the saddle "Forcela de Davoi" or, up to the north from Gardeccia, the "Porte negre". From the top of the Vajolet valley, they would reach the Sella del Principe (Prince saddle), as once even a prince bishop from Bressanone passed through it to reach Val di Fassa. From there, through the "Conca del Principe (Hollow of the Prince) and the Ciamin valley, they would reach Tires.
